1pm	Nahim	Pharmacist

I am a pharmacist, and I have currently three roles, GP practice pharmacist, senior lecturer and community pharmacist. I can talk about community pharmacy to make things straight forward and this is where most people would see or visit. This role involves supplying medicines, ensuring they are correct for the patient – age, other medicines or medical conditions they have. It also involves giving advice or information about medicines and selling medicines for minor ailments.

2pm	Abigail	Dairy Technologist

In the past few months I have worked towards my degree by taking part in a variety of projects such as installation and monitoring of new machines in processing. Taking samples, testing samples, and analysing the data to help us monitor the product. I am also a mentor, and am currently mentoring someone onsite who is taking part in their own project to help develop them; with a second one starting soon. In addition to this I work on document control, making changes and creating documents to meet the standards set by our customers, and taking part in audits when our customers visit us.
